The opinions expressed in this column are the personal views of the writer and do not necessarily reflect those of the management, in fact many times they may differ.

IT ALL DEPENDS:

More trivial, say the Democrats in shrugging off the Literary Digest poll.

An infallible indication that Roosevelt is steadily losing ground both in popularity and policies, loudly assuring the Republicans.

A couple of years ago the Republicans attempted to make light of the poll when it showed that over 60 percent of the ballots were indicative of approval of New Deal legislation.

The picture has now changed and the figures, strange as it may seem, stand exactly in reverse percentage to the previous plumbing of sentiment.

This whole matter, like many others, resolves itself into the question of whose ox is being gored. Human nature is so constituted that it does not want to accept facts if those facts are not in consonance with what it desires to happen. But facts are stubborn things and refuse to change their attitude just because we are afflicted with mental or political astigmatism.

THE COLD FIGURES

Like it or not, this is what the latest Literary Digest poll figures show:

In answer to the poll question of "Do you now approve the acts and policies of the Roosevelt 'New Deal' to date?" 643,514 are shown marked "yes" and the balance of 1,044,948, or 61.89 percent, are tabulated as balloting "no."

The vote in support of the New Deal has declined from 46.72 percent in the first report to 38.11 percent in this week's tabulation.

Staple Prices Expected To Be Cut Soon

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 11.—UP—Moderate price reductions on several staple commodities was the grocer's answer tonight to the challenge of the American housewife who has been raising her eyebrows this week and asking: "You said processing taxes made prices higher; now prove it."

A United Press survey of food prices that greeted the Saturday shopper compared with those Monday when the Supreme Court scrapped the AAA and the processing taxes revealed that the retailer was beginning to pass the saving on to the consumer.

As the week closed bread prices tottered and grocers indicated that a general bread price reduction might come next week. A cut of from one to two cents a loaf in Philadelphia, announced today, was not sufficient to affect the average price for bread. Some cities reported that because of bread wars the price was rock-bottom now.

Bank Loans To Be Restricted
By U. S. Board

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—UP—The Federal reserve board tonight sought to stem possible use of bank credit in financing a security market boom through a proposed restriction of bank loans to the same terms now governing loans by brokers.

The board in a tentative regulation concerning security loans and their effect on market movements solicited the advice of the country's bankers in formulating a definite schedule of stock market margins that also would apply to loans on securities by banks.

PASTO, Colombia, Jan. 11.—UP—A volcano's crater, showering the surrounding countryside with burning lava, had replaced the village of La Chorrera which was swallowed by the earth in yesterday's tremor which rocked this region, according to the small hamlet's lone survivor who arrived here in an hysterical state.

The remainder of the village's 200 inhabitants were believed lost when the ground turned inside out. The total deaths from the disaster were expected to reach as high as 500.

All communications were disrupted and roads leading to the stricken zone were blocked by debris or obliterated by landslides.

Ownership Of Billion To Be Decided Monday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—UP—Ownership of approximately one billion dollars—the amount of AAA processing taxes paid and due hinged tonight on a Supreme Court decision expected Monday.

By months the record reveals 18 actions filed in January, 15 in February, 23 in March, 16 in April, 28 in May, 25 in June, 30 in July, 28 in August, 27 in September, 23 in October, 30 in November and 14 in December.

The decision was awaited with intense eagerness by the three possible beneficiaries of the court's expected ruling. These were: The government, processors of AAA com-modities and persons to whom processors passed on the taxes.

DREDGING OF CHANNEL IS ADVOCATED

Expenditure of a sum of $72,700 for work on the Richmond harbor has been recommended in the U. S. Army engineers annual report on rivers and harbors which was submitted to President Roosevelt, according to press dispatches received yesterday.

The report also recommends general routine improvements and maintenance for San Francisco and Oakland harbors, San Pablo bay and Marie Island strait and other harbors and waterways in the area.

DREDGING PLANNED

Of the sum recommended for Richmond the money would be divided as follows:

1.—$45,000 for dredging the approach channels to the wharves on the inner harbor.

2.—$15,000 to extend the existing turning basin opposite Terminal No. 8 to the mouth of the Santa Fe channel.

3.—$15,000 for the maintenance and dredging of the lower portion of the Santa Fe channel.

TO DREDGE SHOALS

The engineers recommended that $75,000 be expended for maintenance dredging in the Mare Island Strait channel and turning basin and in the Pointe shoal channel.

The major recommendations of the engineers, however, are for $6,450,000 for new work on the Sacramento river and its tributaries during the fiscal year of 1937.

Clubman Is Held For Threats On Roosevelt Life

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—UP—A defective typewriter key and the perseverance of Secret Service agents led today to the arrest of Austin Phelps Palmer, wealthy retired engineer and ardent Republican, on charges of writing letters threatening President Roosevelt with "bodily harm."

The tall, thin-lipped clubman and sportsman, surprised by agents in his lavish Park Avenue apartment, was taken to the customs house where he admitted authorship of the notes. According to investigators he accused the President of responsibility of personal losses totaling $1,000,000.

At first unusually calm, Palmer became nervous on his arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter. He was held in $2,000 bail, complaining bitterly that he had not been permitted to contact his attorney for hours. He was further upset when his personal check for $1,000 was refused although it still is believed to possess a forged signature.

The Bears, smarting under last night's 51 to 29 defeat, apportioned in front at the start on field goals by Rap Olson and Dick Rathbone, towards. They held a 2 to 4 point margin until within a few seconds of the end of the period. Then Troy slipped ahead by a score of 15 to 13.

STANFORD DEFEATED

STANFORD, Jan. 11.—UP—UCLA tonight defeated Stanford University, 44 to 37, in a basketball game that evened the series. Stanford won the first game Friday night, 40 to 30.

UCLA had a 14 to 6 lead with five minutes to go in the first half when Stanford rallied and ended the half with the score 15 to 16 in favor of UCLA.

Stanford went into the lead in the second half with a basket by Lusetti but with ten minutes to go and the score tied 30 to 30, Ball tore loose and scored four baskets in rapid succession. The brilliant flashing play of the UCLA center, coupled with baskets by McFadden, Ashen and Freese gave UCLA a lead the Stanford players were unable to overcome.

SLOW PLAYERS DRAW IRE OF GOLF RULERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—UP—The United States Golf Association today declared war on the dilatory divot diggers who clutter up the major tournaments.

"Appropriate steps, including disqualification" will be the penalty for failure to maintain average pace according to a major item of the annual report of the executive committee, read at the annual meeting of the association.

The report was read by John G. Jackson of New York who was elected president succeeding President S. Bush, also of New York.

Jackson's report noted "increased instances" of undue deliberation over putting and through the greens and said that his committee "takes this opportunity to give notice that the slow play indulged in by some competitors in championships will not be tolerated in the future."

Instances of slow play which annoyed half the field during the national amateur at Cleveland constituted minor scandal.

AAA SUBSTITUTE PLAN STUDIED BY ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—UP—The New Deal tonight leaned strongly toward a broad program of soil conservation as a substitute for the outlawed agriculture administration.

Administration plans, however, admittedly were dependent largely upon the recommendations of a group of 100 farm leaders who gathered here to advise with the Administration on a course of action.

APPROVAL VOTE
If this group comes out for the soil conservation program, it was considered virtually certain the Administration would adopt this substitute.

A drafting committee of 15 farmers approved unanimously a resolution embodying the group's views. It awaited, however, approval by the full body. In some quarters it was said that this resolution favored the soil conservation suggestion.

PLAN STILL VAGUE

Already President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace have indicated a tentative preference for soil conservation.

Broadly, it was assumed the government would recompense farmers who withdraw land from cultivation for the purpose of improving the soil.

CLUB OWNERS PLAYERS CLOSE ON PAY RATES

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—UP—With the departure for Spring training camp only a few weeks away, major league club owners and players appear closer together over salary problems than in years.

During the depression the club owners learned by necessity how to place the proper valuation on a player's services. They devised ways and means to make a player earn his stipend as well as enable him to get what he was worth. From 1931 through 1933 major league salaries on the whole were trained about 25 percent. They were about at a standstill in 1934, and showed a slight increase in 1935, according to estimates. A

ANN, ATTORNEY, AUTHORITIES NEAR BREAK

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—UP—An almost open break developed today between authorities and Russell Tyler, attorney for Ann Cooper Hewitt, 21 year old heiress, over who should start possible criminal action against Miss Hewitt's mother and three others whom the girl is suing for $500,000 for depriving her of motherhood through a sterilization operation.

At the same time Tyler charges his telephone was being tapped and that one of his witnesses had been threatened.

WIRES TAPPED
"I have positive evidence that telephone wires into my office in the Russ Building have been tapped," he said. "I have complained to the telephone company about it. Furthermore, a witness, who is not a citizen, has received threats that she will be deported if she comes to my client's assistance, "as is a result information valuable to our case has been denied us."

JURY MAY ACT

Authorities wanted Miss Hewitt, daughter of the late Peter Cooper Hewitt, wealthy New York inventor to sign a complaint charging them. Tyler said authorities should start criminal action themselves. A grand jury investigation loomed as the only alternative. Mayhem is a felony carrying a penalty of one to 14 years in prison.

"If the district attorney's office is convinced a crime has been committed it should take the responsibility for the arrest and prosecution of the guilty parties," Tyler said. "After all, had I felt the responsibility for such action rested with us, I could have gone before a municipal judge and had Miss Hewitt swear out such warrants as soon as I learned the facts of the sterilization.

"It seems to me that it narrows down to the question of whether all this responsibility should be saddled on a 21 year old girl—a girl in fact, whose mother contends is only 11 year-old mentally—though we know her to be a person normal in every way."

JOHN GILBERT FINAL RITES ARE CONDUCTED

BEVERLY HILLS, Jan. 11.—UP—With a solemnity that was in striking contrast to the hysterical tribute paid other screen lovers, quiet funeral services were held here today for John Gilbert, idol of millions of women in the days of silent picture.

Peace and muted music prevailed as only a few intimate friends of the dark-eyed actor, who died suddenly Thursday of heart disease, were admitted to the flower-filled chapel of the B. E. Dayton mortuary.

FEW BURNERS PRESENT

Among this small group of mourners were two of Gilbert's four former wives—Virginia Bruce, who divorced him two years ago, and Leatrice Joy, whose marriage to Gilbert was one of Hollywood's most sensational romances. The two women wept softly as the Rev. Neal Dodd, a long-time friend of Gilbert, conducted the services.

Leatrice Joy Gilbert, 12 year old daughter of Miss Joy and Gilbert, sat beside her weeping mother. The two year old daughter of Miss Bruce and Gilbert was not taken to the services.

Gilbert's stepfather, Walter Gilbert, of San Francisco, also was present.

LARGE CROWD OUTSIDE

A large crowd of curious pressed against police lines outside as the rites were solemnized.

Gilbert's body was to be cremated and the ashes laid to rest in an undisclosed vault.

Among the intimates who attended the funeral were Gary Cooper film actor, and Sandra Shaw, his wife; Arthur Hornblow, movie executive; Myrna Loy, actress; Rachel Torres, actress and Stephen Ames, her husband; Sharon Lynn, actress; Jetta Goudal, actress, and Benjamin Glazer, producer.

STIRRING ROLE PORTRAYED BY KAY FRANCIS

This is the season when every girl must show her metal, according to Kay Francis, star of "I Found Stella Parish," now at the Fox theater on a double program with "Miss Pacific Fleet." And Kay should know, for there's not a woman in Hollywood, who knows more about fashions.

"The use of metal is the most important feature of the new style parade," says Kay. "It's appearing in every fabric under the sun, from the trim, tailored jerseys and sheep wool that are used in our simple morning frocks to the most elaborate and luxurious velvets and lame that give us our most exciting evening gowns. Metallic-threaded crepes are tops for afternoon, and even at home the newest and loveliest negligees and lounging robes are being made of metallic cloth."

Kay further points out that from the boudoir to the dance floor is a short step to the ubiquitous metal cloth, which is even now used to fashion some of the loveliest new gloves of the year.

In "I Found Stella Parish," Miss Francis has the role of a beautiful and talented actress who is betrayed by the one man she loves.

"Miss Pacific Fleet" presents the screen's greatest quartet of comedy stars in Joan Blondell, Glenda Farrell, Alan Jenkins and Hugh Herbert. The picture is built on a foundation of laughter. Hilarious situations result as the action bounds to a melodramatic climax over waves of laughs. There is a kidnapping, a motor-boat chase for an abducted girl and a free-for-all battle between sailors and marines and their girls.

Minna Gombell, Eddie Acuff and Warren Hill are in the supporting cast.

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 11.—Among its more or less minor claims to fame, Hollywood is the habitat of probably the world's most avid group of collectors of trivia.

Be it microcosm or disregarded properties, the film capital contains one or more collectors whose single aim in life is to have the largest collection of his particular form of passion.

Some go in for sentimental things—old theater handbills, mildewed photographs from silent movies. Others collect Lalique glass, jewels, weapons, and everything else.

Probably the strangest hobby is Harold Lloyd's. It consists of peering through a microscope at all those little wrigglers that inhabit drinking water or cause measles. It doesn't sound much like fun, but Lloyd says he gets a kick out of it.

It's far cry from infinitesimal bugs to diamonds, but sparklers are Mae West's consuming interest. Even between scenes of her current "Klondike Lou," the curvaceous blonde has two or three jewelers a week on the set who stand by with black bags, and to the accompaniment of "ohs" and "ahs" from the hairdressers and other feminine members of the troupe, spread out their wares for inspection.

The outdoors is reflected in Gary Cooper's collective habits. He goes in for guns and for trophies, most of which he shot himself. He owns a big collection of pistols, revolvers and rifles.

Claudette Colbert's tastes are indicated by her choice of first editions and Lalique glassware. She has fine library and some glass that eventually may reach museum.

Carl Brisson goes to the opposite extreme. He collects headgear, of all things. Whether it be a Mohammedan fez or a Gaucho hat, it is sure to be in Brisson's collection of more than 500 different kinds of "hats."

Sir Guy Standing, who amuses himself by painting landscapes, also spends time and money acquiring landscapes painted by others. He also collects jades and other old Chinese pieces.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Despite Great Advances in Medicine, Much Remains to Be Done

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

WE ARE entering a new year and are considering here some of the recent discoveries in medicine that have revolutionized the treatment of disease. As I have said, the production of pure clean milk was the most beneficial of modern developments. It not only has prevented most of the stomach and intestinal diseases of childhood and saved the lives of millions of infants, but has enabled them to enter adult life with much stronger, healthier bodies.

It is true that other great discoveries—may have saved more lives because they have been helpful through more years. The discovery of the method of preventing smallpox through vaccination with cow pox by Dr. Jenner in 1798 was one of the greatest of achievements, but it was many years before its use became general.

For many centuries people fought any new discoveries, and only time and persistence by those who knew their value finally overcame most of the prejudice. Even so, this discovery by Dr. Jenner is best fought by many, though ample proof has been offered by the results.

Another great discovery which has revolutionized our medical methods is that of anesthesia, either chloroform, nitrous oxide and local anesthetics. Perhaps our greatest advance in the last century has been due to anesthesia.

Necessary to Surgery

Without this operative surgery, which constitutes our greatest achievement, would be impossible. In 1846 Dr. Blaier of Boston read a paper proving that insensitivity to pain could be produced by the inhalation of certain vapors. His description and proof were so positive that the use of ether and chloroform to produce anesthesia were soon accepted and the method became general.

Without it the modern surgeon would be helpless. True, much rough necessary surgery was done, but it had to be hurried and conducted to guess work, accompanied by much pain to the patient.

All surgery is based now on an ability to produce anesthesia. Even after the discovery of anesthetics, surgery could not have progressed far, because of infection of wounds and blood poisoning. The death rate from these diseases, enormous until after 1850, has brought forward his theory of surgical cleanliness, and a few years later Koch proved most infectious diseases and blood poisoning were due to pathogenic bacteria. This developed our knowledge of antisepsis and the various methods acquiring surgical cleanliness.

Then, and only then, did modern surgery commence to advance and to attain the almost unbelievable heights of our day.

The man of seventy-three, who said he had passed through a period of the greatest advancement, was stating the fact further statement that no further advancement would be as great as that subject to do.

Period of Change

The last seventy-five years seen great changes in material development, and now in a hundred years, it is said, one of the direct United States Patent Office marked that might as well be the patent office, since everything had been patented.

We cannot visualize so many great changes in the next seventy-five years, but they will probably come. Much is yet to be accomplished in the perfection of our present knowledge.

Ether and chloroform have been known for almost a hundred years, but each year sees improvements in their composition, and new anesthetics are being tried each day. There is one condition present here that was not existent then. That is, a many new thing is suggested; it is taken up and experimented with by hundreds, and it must worth while or it is soon cast aside.

We know of vitamins, but understand too little of how to combine them for the best results. The same holds good for the glands of internal secretions. We have only scratched the surface.

Dr. Chrisman offers readers the privilege of addressing questions in his care of this column. He will answer questions of general interest in his regular daily column on this page.

The Right Height

A sink should be slung at height of thirty-six inches from the rim to the floor to insure comfort for a woman of average weight working at it. A slightly higher placement would be more comfortable for a tall person.

The coat pocket has a fastener capable of several adjustments, the coat being adjustable with a set-screw. The coat extends below elbow and the ticket belt is adjustable.

Guide to Charm

White Hair Is Attractive if Kept Rightly

By JACQUELINE HUNT

WHITE HAIR can be, and should be, beautiful. European women dress up their gray hair and become distinguished, but American women try to postpone the day as long as possible by using hair dyes, henna, or rinses.

Many of you who have dyed your hair and have become tired of it or found it less flattering than you dreamed, now want to know how the dye can be bleached out in a hurry to avoid that unattractive stage when your hair is three or four shades at once.

The answer is it can't be done. The hair must grow out or the dye must wear off, depending on the kind used in the beginning. Some dyes penetrate the hair shaft and others simply coat it. In either case it will take about six months for the original gray or streaked shade to be restored.

The best thing for you to do is to give your hair the best possible care and in the meantime conceal what is growing out with a temporary hair dye the same color as that originally used.

Between new applications of the temporary dye have a hot oil treatment and shampoo. Go in heavily for scalp treatments, so the hair will be healthy and the new growth a more uniform shade. Manage the scalp three times a week or often to pep up the circulation and use a corrective hair tonic, if needed, to overcome oiliness, dryness, or dandruff.

Brush and brush your hair once or twice daily to polish the strands and to keep them thoroughly cleaned and lubricated. Graying hair usually requires much more oil than it did before, so a good scalp pomade, hot oil treatment every two weeks, and a light, oily dressing will help restore its beauty.

As you brush and shampoo, pull, pinch in the waves and train the ends to curl. With the proper care it is possible to restore waves and curl lost through dyeing or improper care that coarsened or damaged the texture of the hair. With such intensive care during the six or seven months your dyed hairs are growing out you will emerge with a shining halo of white hair and justly be proud.

Emphasize with smart black and white costumes, soft shades of blue or rose, and some gray colors. Many gray-haired women can wear the brighter shades, or rather, give your face life and emphasis with rouge, lipstick and a delicate tracing of your eyebrows. Mascara, too, for the gray-haired woman, to give her eyes brilliance and depth.

Keep your gray hair well-groomed—every single lock of it in place. A fairly short coiffure, shaped to the head, is smartest and easiest to care for.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "My nails and cuticles are a constant source of trouble. When I manicure my nails myself, they tend to split and the cuticles become ragged. Yet when I go to a beauty shop my fingers are sore for a week afterwards and little white spots develop on the nails. What would you suggest?"—Imogene."

Manicure your nails at home but use only an emery board or the fine side of a steel file for shaping, and file with strokes in one direction only—from the sides to the tip. Use a cuticle softener or remover and a cotton-tipped orange stick for working back the cuticles, then soak the fingertips in warm soapy water for a few minutes. Dry carefully and you will find that the dead cuticle can be removed rather easily. Do not cut the cuticles, but keep them soft and manageable with nightly applications of cuticle oil or a soaking in warm olive oil.

If a preparation is good for your skin it is good but that doesn't mean you can use it the year around. Winter, for instance, increases the need for a heavier cleansing cream, a richer lubricating cream, and a milder skin tonic.

The lipstick that gave you that satin smoothness in the summer may cake and look heavy right now, and the powder which seemed so perfect in the warm weather may fly away as soon as you venture outdoors.

If you want to look smart during the next two or three chilly months change your cosmetics. Use a paste rouge, a softer lipstick, a creamy powder base or heavier cream, a good hand cream, and a super-oily cream for delicate areas like those around the eyes and mouth.

The Final Touch

Getting ready for the dance means a final dash of perfume—not too much, but not too little—which gives her the individuality needed.

MODERN WOMEN

Married Woman Who Bestows Caresses Openly Usually Not Dangerous

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

MAKING love with other women's husbands is not the best way of ingratiating oneself in a new neighborhood. It may all be in the spirit of good, clean fun and a modern and meaningless gesture, but, taken by and large, other wives do not like it. What's more, I am not so sure their husbands do, either. For it makes for too many complications.

Dear Mrs. Martin: What do you think of a young married woman who allows other men to kiss her—in fact, kisses them every chance she gets? I don't mean on the sly, for I don't know anything about that, but, in front of her husband and at parties, and so on. She rushes up and throws her arms around men and makes a big fuss over them. My husband is among those she acts this way with. While at first I got mad at him for accosting her, I see now he really acts that way with all the attractive men she knows. She's in our community, and except that she acts as I say, and drinks and smokes, she seems very nice. She has no children, and plenty of time on her hands. We are a busy crowd, most of us not having a maid, and she has the advantage of being able to entertain more. She makes it plain that anyone is welcome to drop in for drinks, and, in fact, several times served them to some of the men when their wives didn't happen to drop in. Her husband was there, though. Do you think we should let her understand we think she should act more according to "small town standards"? That's her expression. Suburbanite."

Charles! "What?" the boy said with considerable annoyance. "Come here, Charles!" The boy came in dragging his feet. Dad faced him, eyes blazing angrily. "When I call you to come and find out what I want, you're not to answer. 'What?' Dad's temper mounted as he spoke, and for emphasis he struck the boy's face.

The youngster winced and so did his mother. S. B. had been watching, nervous, fearful, but unable to interfere because the action had happened so quickly. Now she came forward trembling with excitement. She placed an arm protectingly about Charles. "You didn't have struck him," she told father. "You lost your temper. It wasn't right. You haven't a right to punish a child when you are all worked up emotionally." "I'll strike him any time I please!" dad shouted back. The words were ill chosen, but dad was too angry to care how he expressed himself. Mother looked significantly at him. She said, "Come to the boy, and in passing shrink from his dad."

Situations like this occur in many homes. One parent interfering when another is dealing with a child. In this particular case, it may be argued that the mother was right; that the father was wrong; but such reasoning is beside the point. A more fundamental issue is involved, that of interfering shrunk from his dad.

This woman's ways are evidently not yours. Having come to live in a community, I do think she should follow the good old when-in-Rome principle. It saves such a tremendous amount of criticism, much of which may be quite unjust.

Sophisticates know such a woman as you describe is not the type to be feared. She rarely goes for skulduggery. It's the quiet type who doesn't melt-in-her-sight type who bears watching; at least, she's the type who usually walks off with her husband.

Personally, I do not much care for the "hello darling" type of woman who gushes at over-dense males. Not that they mind, still it's taking an unfair advantage, for after all, they might prefer to make their own advances. Anyway you look at it, the other husbands and wives are uncomfortable.

American husbands are easy-going and not quick to think evil of their wives. Nevertheless, I submit very much if they enjoy the estate of their wives making more or less fools of themselves or other men, no matter how unless they may agree it is.

Husband May Resent

A husband might well resent his conduct on his wife's part, though he was convinced she to do it herself. He might well feel it an unnecessary gesture reflected little credit on all concerned; in fact, derived from the consideration of a merry young wives have the habit of conducting themselves as you describe. It's a sort of popular trick contemporary society of finds amusing. Don't make it seriously. It really doesn't a thing, excepting that the man who so conducts herself is fitting for the center of the. She interprets it as the gesture of good fellowship. It concerns her husband than anyone else, and any of her conduct should from him.

monstrously unfair for other to accuse on their husbands they are among those the lady bestows her indicate corsses. By rule, men have better sense women in judging other women. And, as a rule, they do not the type under discussion seriously. They prefer dis-why it blocks up your stomach. You have a

way to keep breath wholesome

Halitosis (bad breath) quickly yields to Listerine, safe antiseptic and deodorant

Either because of stomach disturbances, food fermentation, or the wearing of false teeth, old people frequently have halitosis (bad breath).
No wonder others consider them a nuisance.

But now science has found that the regular use of Listerine will often overcome offensive odors caused by the formation of tiny bits of food on mouth, teeth, or dental plates.

This safe antiseptic and quick deodorant works quickly. It cleanses mouth, teeth, and gum surfaces. Halts fermentation and putrefaction, a major cause of odors, and then keeps the odor from returning.

Try using Listerine every two or three days.

Todd Death Still Unsolved

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11—UP—Thelma Todd, blonde comedienne of the screen, died over a month ago under circumstances so mysterious that one of the most intensive grand jury investigations resulted.

A steady stream of witnesses paraded before the jury. Business associates, intimate friends and people who were with her on the last night she was seen alive, all testified, but none have answered the question "How did Thelma Todd die?"

To the right is a composite picture of all the criminal witnesses who have appeared before the investigating body:

(4)—Mrs. Alice Todd, the actress' mother; (5)—P. H. W. Schaefer, manager of the Sidewalk Cafe; (6)—Mrs. Wallace Ford, who invited Thelma to a party she did not attend.

(7)—Harvey Prieber, Thelma's insurance counselor and, rumor says, her former fiance; (8)—Zasu Pitts, film actress and close friend of Thelma's; (9)—Helen Ainsworth modiste to the elite of filmdom, who testified that Thelma was moody in her latter days.

(10)—Patsy Kelly, film actress, who was part of a comedy team on the screen with Thelma; (11)—Jewi dinner at the same place that evening Carmen, star of silent films, and (14)—Ray Hayes, Thelma's wife of Roland West; (12)—May Whitehead, Thelma's maid.

(13)—Margarete Lindsay, film actress, with whom Di Cicco appeared.

Surviving him are the widow, Mrs. La Verne T. Strom, a daughter, Mrs. Lewis P. Drago of Oakland, a son, A. T. Strom of this city, and two brothers, Oscar and Charles Strom of Chicago.

The remains are at the Wilson & Kratzer parlors, pending arrangements being made for the funeral.

Senate Will Take Action On Vet Bonus

was said to be built around a plan to issue negotiable bonds which veterans could cash or use as collateral for bank loans.

BATTLE IS ON

Fighting that proposal were Senators who believed that the bonus can be made the medium for currency expansion. It was also opposed as a useless gesture, since under present conditions most veterans would be expected to cash their bonds immediately.

Senator William E. Borah, R.-Idaho, subscribed to the latter plan. "The bond has a rather shadowy substance," he said. "Under present conditions I think the veterans would cash their bonds. That would make them the same as cash payment."

Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson is taking part in the bonus conferences. In actual charge of the bill will be that adroit legislator, Chairman Pat Garrison of the Senate finance committee.

ies in the latest returns. The other twelve, all southern and border States with the exception of Utah, still voice approval of the President's policies.

The additional ballots tabulated currently indicate a larger affirmative vote for the New Deal in eleven States and a decreased percentage in the thirty-seven other States since the previous week's report. The only sharp declines are noted in New York and New Hampshire.

Massachusetts is the only State registering more than 80 percent disapproval of the New Deal. The five other New England States and New Jersey are shown voting 70-80 percent negatively. Fifteen more States are in the 60-70 percent bracket and the balance of fourteen States are halting 50-60 percent against the Administration's policies.

COAST AGAINST IT

In the eight States of the Rocky Mountain section approximately three of every five voters are shown registering disapproval, and the ratio of the three Pacific Coast States is virtually the same.

HOLD ORDER PLACED BY LOCAL COPS

Malley appeared at the home of Mrs. Ogborn in July, 1935 and told her he represented a defunct oil company in which the former Richmond city official held numerous shares of stock. O'Malley allegedly told Mrs. Ogborn that his company was planning to reorganize and that he could dispose of the stock or her.

O'Malley allegedly gained Mrs. Ogborn's confidence and she allowed him to inspect other stocks she held. While looking over her holdings, police charge, O'Malley stole two tank books from the woman. One book was on the Bank of America at Fresno and the second was on the Richmond branch of the Bank of America.

SIGNED LETTER

Believing that O'Malley was trustworthy, Mrs. Ogborn signed a letter granting the man limited power of attorney to act in disposal of her oil stocks. O'Malley then left.

A few days later, police say, Mrs. Ogborn received from the local bank two cancelled checks, one for $135 and another for $450 made out to the order of O'Malley and signed with her name. She told police that she believed O'Malley had traced her signature from the power of attorney she had given him upon the checks.

A warrant for the man's arrest on charges of grand theft was issued by local police on July 23, 1935. He has been hunted ever since.

A short time ago Mrs. Ogborn brought suit against the Bank of America in the Superior court for the sum of $759. She charged that on September 25, 1935 that she had $640 on deposit in the Richmond branch and $119 in the Fresno branch of the bank. She alleged that she demanded the money on the above named date but the bank refused to deliver it to her.

SUITS INVOLVE VAST NUMBER LOCAL LOTS

MARTINEZ, Jan. 11.—Property, which plaintiffs claim has a market value of $868,800, is involved in four suits, one of which will be tried before Superior Judge Thomas D. Johnston here Monday, seeking to have the court set aside sale of the property under deeds of trust.

A suit filed by Louise M. Peterson, against the Corporation of America and Bank of America, National Trust and Savings Corporation, involving parcels of property for which a market value of $750,000 is claimed, will be tried first, followed in succession by the other actions.

The suits are identical in nature and it is alleged by Miss Peterson that on December 30, 1930 the firm of Burg Brothers executed a note for $206,320.81 to the Bank of America, giving hundreds of lots in Richmond, and other property, as security.

She alleges that April 3, 1933, Burg Brothers sold the property to her by deed and that she is now the owner.

On May 29, 1935 the property was sold for $262,500 to the Corporation of America and Miss Peterson alleges the true market value of the property is $750,000.

The action claims the bank failed to post notice on each lot, on each tract, and on each parcel.

The court is asked to vacate and set aside the sale under the deed of trust, subject to the said debt and security referred to.

The other actions include one filed by Amanda M. Peterson claiming a sale for $13,411 of property worth $35,000; suit by Louise M. Peterson claiming sale for $17,000 of property worth $42,500 and a fourth action filed by Burg Brothers, claiming sale for $17,000 of property worth $40,980.

Attorney John J. O'Brien of Oakland represents the plaintiffs while the firm of McKee, Tashira and Wahrhaftig of Oakland represents the defense.

aim of failure. Hearing of the appeal lasted more than six hours. Attorneys for the state and the condemned man were heard.

COURT DELIBERATES

What came out at the session probably never will be made known because members of the court are bound by tradition not to reveal proceedings.

The court deliberated less than an hour.

After the decision Governor H. G. Hoffman who has shown an unusual interest in Hauptmann's behalf, returned to his State house office. He declined to discuss the verdict.

REPRIEVE SOUGHT

C. Lloyd Fisher, chief counsel for the convicted man, indicated he would go to the governor early next week and seek a reprieve for his client.

A sensation that preceded the court hearing was the governor's order that Dr. John F. (Jaftie) Condon, State's star witness against Hauptmann, be taken into custody for questioning.
